CALLOWAY COUNTY, KENTUCKY Bicentennial History Book

Since the early 1800s, when settlers came to explore the Jackson Purchase and Banister Wade made a permanent home along the West Fork of Clark's River in 1820, the area that would become Calloway County has been a center for both agriculture and business, beautiful homes and rich traditions, a place where people are known for hard work, steadfast faith, and family values.

To celebrate the county's 200th Anniversary this year, the Calloway County Fiscal Court is proud to release this comprehensive historical book of the county, its people and communities, with hundreds of photographs through the years.

This hardbound, library quality 8.5 x 11-inch coffee-table volume is printed on heavy-weight gloss paper for superior photo reproduction, and beautifully bound in a rich, gray leatherette cover with the Calloway County seal stamped in gold foil. Contents include:

- The Wadesboro Years, 1822-1840
- Antebellum Days, 1840-1860
